BREADCARE!

Don't put the bread in the refrigerator

The best way to store bread is on the kitchen counter. Refrigerators make bread taste stale. It's ok to freeze loaves. Just ask us for an extra bag and double bag your loaves to protect them. (Many people will freeze half a loaf and leave the other half on the counter.)

Home Style Breads

Most of our breads will stay fresh for a week. The cheese breads should be eaten within five days or frozen.

European Hearth Loaves

Put our European Hearth Loaves in a plastic bag after the first day. The whole wheat hearth loaves will stay fresh for about five days. The other hearth breads should be eaten within three days or frozen. Baguettes are one day breads.
